Dear Jacob

I am so sorry to hear that you have been knocked out. I hope the voyage has put you to rights. I have changed my plans. Some matters came up about our proposed new laboratories & clinique - rooms at the Radcliffe, which it is important for me to try to settle before the end of next term. An old cove called Brose, aged 88, formerly surgeon of the Hospital surprised me by leaving £8000 to it. The Managers have agreed to put up Laboratories, but there is a hitch about the land. & I may be able to induce the Trustees of the Radcliffe Fund to give a bit of ground next the Infirmary.

We had a splendid month in Florence. Wonderful city! I picked up a few treasures.
Oschki has the best Antiquariat outside Germany - & I suppose for Inscrutabilia the best in Europe.
From him Henry Walters bought his collection - en masse - 900.
In Venice I got a fine Sched. of Talerum 1480 - one of the earliest editions. Altogether I have had some fine hauls - particularly of the good old Italian. Bologna & Padua were quite up to my expectations. P. is perhaps a bit disappointing - the Aula is wonderful. We had nearly a week in Venice & three glorious days. I saw the unique, 1538, six plates of Vesal - very interesting in comparison with his 1543 work as the drawings tho. done by Calcar are much inferior. Many years ago Sir Herbert Maxwell had them reproduced but his copy is very rare. I shall get an estimate from the Press - they would be worth reproducing. The Statues are very up to date in library work - the catalogues are excellent. We spent the day at Verona - not much there & left the Amphitheatre. They had not even a copy of Trajan's poem in the library! I saw the Spedale Maggiore here the am. greatly changed internally since John Morgan's description in 1759. It is one of the largest in Europe. I am going to see G. Agri at Ravenna tomorrow.

I have written to Chataud about the delay the meeting as I now shall be out by the 22nd but I suppose they may as well keep the one already fixed. I am sorry to have disarranged unnecessarily their arrangements, but I did not know until a week ago that I would have to go back to England.
I am glad to see that Rieucault is with you. I am sending him a line as I hope to catch him in London.

Do let us have a line from you soon.
We leave here Sunday night and will be at the Grand Hotel Trafalgar Square Monday night. With love to Mrs Jacobs
